

Tommaso Gordini - French horn

Tommaso was born in Padua in 1972; native of Friuli, when it's possible, he comes back in his beloved Grado, home of good food and good wine.

After high school and Conservatory of Music (in 1995), he graduated in Italian Literature at the University of Padua; now he teaches italian and latin literature in high schools.

He attended the masterclasses of very important musicians and he played with famous orchestras like "La Fenice", "l'Orchestra di Padova e del Veneto", "I Solisti Veneti", "l'Orchestra del Teatro Comunale di Treviso", "l'Orchestra Filarmonia Veneta - Gian Francesco Malipiero" and, of course, "l'Ochestra di Fiati di Padova" (Padua Wind Orchestra). He loves reading and collecting Cds: he owns complete discographies of the most important french horn players and the whole John Williams'. He takes care of his body running every day and, when the right season comes, he relaxes with breath-held diving into open sea.
